The 3 Golden Rules

- 1 Arrive early to your parties.
- 2 You and your trailer must be very clean.
- 3 Be professional.

Fundraisers, carnivals, festivals, fairs and events benefit from the attraction of a mobile video game theatre available by booking online at RollingVideoGames.com and owners keep 100% of their earnings, control their events and work schedule. No special permits are required to pull these bumper-hitch trailers and no specialized gaming skills or business experienced is required.

Each unit comes climate controlled with heating/AC, plush carpeted walls, multiple TVs, gaming consoles and controls, powerful sound system, generator with the option of extra LED lights, solar power, limo seats, RV power control, electric jack and safety protocols to protect everyone.

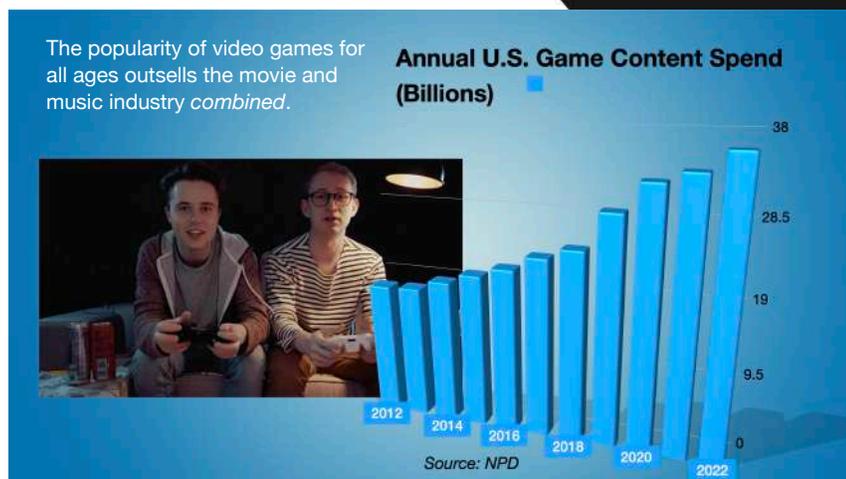

Overhead is low, consisting mostly of gas and labor for the events. Local reputation is key and with such a unique and popular business model, word spreads quickly in the region. A Facebook forum of owners around the country supply additional support for ongoing issues and questions and owners find their bookings grow directly proportionate to their people skills.

Rolling Video Games provides a safe environment for kids. Owners with families often involve youngsters in participating in the operation of the business, as they are very familiar with the gaming culture and quickly absorb the fundamentals of business: collecting payments, customer relations, assisting on site at the parties and leaving customers happy.

Customers feel safe that their party takes place in front of their home in a protected, clean mobile theatre, often equipped with safety cameras allowing parents to monitor with a secure login while protecting their home from the normal chaos of a birthday party. Repeat business is inevitable and the community often books events for church/school fundraisers while the owner can benefit from trade advertising from radio stations, media and convention events for additional exposure.

Many owners have no business experience and little gaming interest, but recognize the power of the Rolling Video Games business model opting to run the business from their phone, while employing reliable college students to drive to the events as the "Game Coach" and purchasing multiple units to cover broader areas.

Toby Stafford If they are just going to have all 100 kids out there at once what I do is set the games myself (Mario kart. Super smash bro's 8 players, Minecraft maybe a sports game all inside then outside I do just dance and rocket league) that allows me to have 3... See More
